Statement Issued.

Statement Issued.

A statement was given out at the White House to-day concerning the President's letter of yesterday to Chairman Wadsworth relative to the action of the committee. Mr. Wadsworth would not make the letter public, and the President promptly let the correspondents know its entire contents. The statement, which was issued by Secretary Loeb, says:

"In the letter to Mr. Wadsworth the President stated that almost every change in the proposed House amendment was a change for the worse as compared with the Senate amendment, and that, no matter how unintentionally, it was in the President's judgment so framed as to minimize the chance of rooting out the evils in the packing-house business; that the President felt it would doubtless suit those packers who objected to a thorough-soing inspection, but that he also feit it would in the jected to a thorough-going inspection, but that he also felt it would in the long run be a heavy blow to the honest stock raiser and the honest packer; that the proposed amendment would gravely hamper the Secretary of Agriculaure in doing the work appointed him to do, and would simply defer the day when we could restore the foreign and interstate trade in meat the n satisfactory position. The meat to a satisfactory position. President has explained verbally the government should pay for the inspection than with certain other features in the bill."

culture whose votes authorized the report of the substitute meat inspection bill, to which the President objects, was held to day. After the conference, Chairman Wadsworth conferred with Speaker Cannen, after which the Speaker, upon peting asked regarding the situation, had this to say:

"I do not care to discuss for publication the report of the House Committee on Agriculture, touching meat inspection. It is now pending before the House, and in common with other members of the ow pending before the House, and mor with other members of the I am satisfied that it will re-sate and sound consideration. I so satisfied that before Congress am also satisfied that before Congress adjourns, legislation will be enacted to provide for efficient inspection for one-third of the world's meat product, finding markets in the United States and in foreign countries. The floor of the House is the place for debate, consideration at action regarding a matter which is pend-ing legislation."

Congress Excited.

The probability of a veto is causing excitement at both ends of the Capitol. It would simply mean an extension of the sassion until Congress had enacted an inspection law which met the approvat of the Executive. Packers themselves of the Executive. Packers themselv realize that it would be rulnous to the industry to allow Congress to adjourn and go home without enacting a law which would, at least ostensibly, competing in the products. The business has gone to pieces, both at home and abroad, since the disclosures of nome and abroad, since the disclosures of the Nelli-Reynolds report, and the packing-house proprietors and the cattle-growers are insistent that there be legisation which will caim the public mind at least. The Wadsworth substitute would do this, but the President claims it would do little more. He and a large portion of the House, if not a majority, will contend that the original Beveridge amendment, in substance, if not in form, be adopted. If it is not emeted, the chances are that an extra session will be called for the purpose of passing a law which meets the ideas of the President.

The Minority Report.

which meets the ideas of the President.

The Minority Report.

Below is the report of the minority of the Committee on Agriculture, which outlines precisely the kind of bill wanted by the President. The minority report will be supported by Representative Lamb, the senior Democratic member of the committee, and by five others of his colleagues on the committee. The Virginia delegation is decidedly in favor of the substitute, but Capt. Lamb is unshaken in his belief that justice requires that the cost of inspection beborne by the packers, who have made conditions such that inspection is necessary. Furthermore, Capt. Lamb says, conditions such that inspection is neces-iary. Furthermore, Capt. Lamb says, and his committee colleagues, who sign-d the minority report, it is proper that he cost he borne by the growers of cat-le and the consumers of canned products, ather than by that portion of the people which does not raise beef nor eat it. Hon. Henry C. Stuart, of Russell coun-y, a member of the State Corporation commission, and one of the most extenshould bear the cost of inspection; ouer-wise, the packers will levy it on the grower and the consumer, and thus make a clear profit out of the law. But Capt, Lamb is firm and will try "his level best," as he expressed it, to defeat the substitute.

A member of the Metropolitan Club said: "Mr. Schwab's friends are of the opinion that he would be the hest candidate to succeed Newlands.
"The reasons are that his investments in Nevada have served to attract other investors, and that his name will keep Nevada much in the public eye.
"After hearing arguments, Mr. Schwab consented to become a candidate, but he objected to having the matter made public until he shall have become a citizen of Nevada, which will take place within a few months."

Day's Work in Congress.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15.—The bill amending the national bank law, with Senator amendments was concurred in by the House by a vote of 125 to 70.

By the terms of the Senate amendment a national bank may loan to a single will prove a national bank may loan to a single borrower a sum not in excess of thirty per cent. of its capital stock, provided that the surplus of the bank is equal to that the surplus of the bank is equal to at least twice its capital stock.

The House concurred in the Senate amendments to the bill authorizing col-lectors of internal revenue to furnish to prosecuting attorneys certified copies of liquor licenses issued by them.

Session of the Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The time of the Senate to-day was in the main divided between the Panama Canal bill and the Lake Eric and Ohlo river ship canal bill. On the former there were speeches by Senators Teler and Morgan, while in connection with the latter a number of senators engaged in a controversy over the policy of granting a national charter to an interstate canal. Senator Bacon took positive grounds against such a course and spoke at length in presentation of his views.

Senator Morgan expressed the opinion in the Senate that the Panama Canal will prove a paying investment. The statement was made in connection with the reading of a letter written him by Gen. George W. Davis, concerning the profitable character of the Suez Canal, in that letter, General Davis said that the stock of the Suez enterprises com-prolitable character of the Sucz Canal, in that letter, General Davis said that the stock of the Sucz enterprises commands a premium of 500 per cent. on the Paris Bourse.

"Let us get rid of the idea that we are going to give away a great deal of money in connection with the canal." said the Alabama Senator. "I believe that if it were a stock concern the stock would be worth $500 on the $100 within a few years after its completion, notwithstanding I fully appreciate the physical difficulties in the way of building a canal at the place decided upon. Let us, therefore, put away all hysteria and despair on the funncial feature of the canal project. The figures on the Sucz Canal are reassuring on that point."

CLEVELAND DOUBTS DEMAND FOR BRYAN

Wants to Be Shown Cause for It Before He Reaches a Conclusion.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch,)

PRINCETON, N. J., June 15,-It is prenature to say that Grover Cleveland, who, under his Presidency, was Secretary of the Interior, favors William J. Bryan as the next Democratic nominee for President. He has not need able to comprehend what is the cause of the recent arousal of interest in Mr. Bryan, He has not expressed anything except a sort of "dwnning to know" attitude regarding the call for him from certain on that he is unable yet to think of the Bryan wave in a way to lead him to pass an opinion upon its actuality. Two years is, they point out, a long look dented aspects to the situation which they say, make him keep what he thinks to himself. One is that never before has it been the case that a possible candidate for the Presidency gained popularity for foreign travels. Another is that never before has there been a possibility that a twice-defeated candidate could greatly commend himself to his party's convention for a third trial. A third is that Mr. Bryan has made no specific declaration in respect of the need of accentuating the tariff issue, which many Democrats fulling Mr. Cleveland, dwell upon as more essential than all other issues.

Mr. Cleveland was asked if he would

Mr. Cleveland was asked if he would point out why the tariff was the father of other ills now complained of, but he would not, saying:

"So many persons have asked me the same question, and I am now so much occupied, that I don't see how I can undertake to answer you."

Of Mr. Bryan's recrudescence, Mr. Cleveland was even more loath to speak for publication. He was highly interested in the speech of his friend, Mr. Francis, to the Missouri Democratic Convention, which declared that Mr. Bryan and broadened in ideas and sympathies, and was now "worthy of any office in the gift of the American people." SOCIALISTIC WORKERS MEET ABROAD AND WED

NEW YORK, June 15 .- Miss Anna Strunsky, who at twenty-five is known with D. R. Francis, former Governor of laborator with Jack London in writing "The Kempton-Wace Letters," recently went to St. Petersburg on a journalist errand connected with the revolutionary propaganda. There she met and married William English Walling, a young millionaire, son of Dr. Willoughby Walling and grandson of William H. English, who ran for Vice-President on the Democratic ticket in 1880. Mr. Walling was traveling in Europe to study the immigration problem and also to write magazine articles about the Czar's dissatisfied subjects. Both were sent by J. Phelps Stokes to work in the cause of socialism and revolution.

Both young people are widely known in this city, especially in the University settlement, where Mr. Walling lived for a errand connected with the revolutionary e, the organization of Russian revolutionary sympathizers. Miss Strunsky was a Jewess, born in Russia and brought up in America. She was praised in the New York papers as an infant prodigy when twelve years of age.

Congressman Says This is Reason Republicans Were Slow in Abolishing Official Boxes.

TARIFF THE CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Democratic Leaders Moving to Force Question to the Front This Fall.

(From Our Regular Correspondent,) WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15 .- It apsears now as though patrons of rural delivery routes will be allowed to make their own boxes in which the carriers are to deposit mail. Representative Sims, of Tennessee, has made a hard fight to have the department discontinue the practice of compelling rural patrons to purchase a metal box of the kind prescribed by the department. He fought in vain to have the postoffice appropria to be done, and, when he failed, by party vote almost strictly, he took his party vote almost strictly, he took his amendment to Senator Latimer, of South Carolina, a member of the Senate Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads, and had him propose it as an amendment to the bill. The amendment was accepted, and the bill was passed by the Senate as amended.

First Made Boxes.

But the House conferees on the bill refused to allow the amendment to stand. The Senate conferees stood firm until a letter was received from Fpurh As-sistant Postmater-General DeGraw, saysistant Postmaster-General DeGraw, saying that the department was preparing a scheme whereby rural route patrons would be allowed to put up any boxes they choso, provided they met the approval of the postmaster at the countyseat of the county in which the patron resided.

The Senate conferees, upon assurances that this change would be made, have agreed to recede from the Latimer amendment. The change is not wholly satisfactory to Mr. Sims, but he believes amendment. The change is not wholly satisfactory to Mr. Sims, but he believes he has succeeded in righting a wrong to a very great extent, and he is hopeful that Congress will eventually, probably at the next session, right it entirely.

He charges openly that the reason the department and the Republican majority in the House does not want the present regulations changed is that the boxes now used under compulsion are manifactured by a big corporation, which has contributed largely to the Republican campaign funds, and that the steel trust is also behind this box manufacturing concern.

Tariff the Issue.

Tariff the Issue.

Mr. Hanna went to the St. Louis convention in 1896 with the determination that the tariff should be the issue in the class in Washington say the tariff must be the issue this fall. Republican politi-cians in Washington say the tariff must be the issue this fall. Republican politi-cians fear the tariff will be the issue. Both Democrats and Republicans almost invariably predict that tariff revision will be the paramount question of the cam-the issue in the campaign of 15%, despite the strenuous efforts of the Republicans to force the tariff as the main subject of contest. The people always make issues, however dear to the heart of the politician is the belief that he decides the questions the voters are to talk about and to vote on.

Democratic leaders want the tariff to be the issue, and Republicans fear it will be the issue. This causes both Democrats and Republicans to express the opinion, nine times out of ten, that the tariff will be the paramount issue in the fall campaign. MRS. JORDAN TO WED he the paramount issue in the fall campaign.

It is a fact, however, that invariably the first question asked of a public man when his name is suggested for a position, is, "How much of a radical is he?" The reasons given for the course of one-time enemies of Mr. Bryan in now boosting him for the nomination is that he has become by comparison a conservative. Everybody in Washington who discussed Mr. Bryan and his chances for the nomination what he would say about socialism. And when in his recent Berlin interview he took the position he had taken in his article in the April Century, advocating ingividualism in opposition to socialism, here was much pleasure. The radicalism or the conservatism of the man under discussion is always a reason for the opposition or support of the men mentioned as the successor of Mr. Roossevelt.

Situation in Country.

Situation in Country.

Situation in Country.

In certain portions of the country the tariff is making itself the issue. That is the way in which real issues are always made. In Massachusetts the manufacturers are clamoring for more liberal tariff laws which shall allow them to obtain cheaper raw material, and at the same time permit them to have access to foreign markets. A genuine anti-protective turiff sentiment preveils among the farmers of Iowa, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas. The "Jowa idea" is not dead by any means, but is manifesting itself in the campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in that State, where Governor A. B. Cummins, the originator of the idea, appears to have administered an overwhelming defent to his opponent for the nomination, who stood on a "stand-pat," platform. In other sections of the country there is sincere agilation of the ariff question. In others there are indications that the tariff has not been seriously considered this year as an issue in the campaign.

The Democrats of Tennessee, the other that the tariff has not been seriously considered this year as an issue in the campaign.

The Democrats of Tennessee, the other day, for instance, forgot to mention the tariff in the platform of principles.

It is by no means certain that the tariff can be made the paramount issue. Two years must pass before the next presidential campaign. Another Congress will be chosen before that time arrives. It may be that Congress, will do something to make the tariff an issue, Mr. Roosevell has declared in favor of revision of some of the schedules, and it is in his power to revive the question by a message to Congress at any time. He has talked of sending in such a message almost ever since his inauguration.

This question of socialism will not down, no matter though the tariff be made a foremost issue of the campaign. The extremely radical tendencies of Mr. Roosevelt, the equally radical doctrines of Mr. Hearst, and the conservative interpretations put upon the utterances of Mr. Bryan, will keep alivé the feeling and the war between the radicals and conservatives.

Democrata are praying that the tariff asking the commission to prevent the change in the schedule of the Southern Railway.

The commission, acting upon these petitions, had issued an order for the railway to show cause why it should not be prevented from changing the schedule. Ten days were allowed for the railway to file an answer, but before this time expired the commission issued another order Saturday night that the new schedule should not become effective until the final hearing on the first order.

However, the division superhitement of the Southern ran the train on the new schedule, as published, and the Southern obtained a restraining order from the Foderal Court to prevent suits to collect the penalty for violating the commission's order. To day was the time for a hearing before the Corporation Commission, when the matter was brought to an unexpected end by the withdrawal of all petitions.

Attorneys for the petitioners admitted that they found the Corporation Commission.
